PDF As A Standard

- Published & publicly available PDF specification
  - Combines PDF with XML industry standards
  - ISO PDF Standards that address specialized needs are already available:
    - PDF/A: Reliable file format for archiving and preservation
    - PDF/X: Predictable printing of digital files anywhere in the world
    - PDF/E (proposed): Exchange of complex technical documents for architecture, engineering, construction, manufacturing, and geospatial industries
    - PDF/UA (proposed): Defines the attributes of PDF files to enhance their ability to work in conjunction with assistive technologies
- Public information available at AIIM
  - www.aiim.org/standards

PDF As A Standard – Benefits and Examples

- Benefits
  - Simplifies development and deployment of standards-based applications
  - Extends standards beyond business and industry boundaries
  - PDF can be the bridge across industry and line-of-business domains
  - Secure container that can also leverage industry security and authenticity standards
- Examples:
  - MISMO, PISCES, PRIA,
  - ACORD, ORIGO - Insurance standards
  - XBRL - Financial reporting
  - Government – US Courts, NARA, FDA, US Customs, UN/CEFACT
  - UBL, OAGIS, UN eDocs - ebXML CCTS-based b2b standards
  - RosettaNet - Manufacturing

New: Adobe Releases PDF to ISO

- PDF 1.7 will be released to AIIM for ISO submission
  - Announced Jan 29, 2007
- Natural outcome of existing standards efforts
- Expected ratification of ISO standard in 12-30 months
- Resulting standard will be product of working group

Lowering Barriers to Adoption

- Support for industry standards
- Authentication, security, certification
  - Can provide authentication and auditable trail (particularly for compliance/legal purposes)
- Archival support
- Access for all through ubiquitous, free Reader and Flash Player
  - e.g., virtual closing rooms
