

John Dunham

John Dunham is the President of John Dunham and Associates, an economic consulting firm based in New York City. John specializes in the economics public policy issues and controversial products and has conducted literally hundreds of studies on the effects of excise taxes and regulations. He is a regular commentator on U.S. economic conditions.

Prior to starting his own firm, John was the senior U.S. economist with Philip Morris, the nation's largest consumer products company. In that capacity, John produced research and information on key issues facing all of its lines of business, including tobacco, beer and food products. Prior to Philip Morris, John was a senior economist for various state and local government agencies, including the New York City Mayor's Office, the New York City Comptroller's Office, and the Port Authority of New York and New Jersey where he conducted the economic impact analysis of the World Trade Center.

John received his M.A. in economics from the New School for Social Research and his MBA from Columbia University. He is a member of the American Economics Association and the National Association of Business Economists. His research has been published in a number of refereed journals including Economic Inquiry.

Originally from Colorado, John now lives in Brooklyn Heights with his wife Alison, a published writer, and their two cats.