Industry Hangover: The Future of Automated Underwriting

Business Solutions Track sponsored by

What's the difference between an eligibility engine and an automated underwriting system (AUS)? With the surge in growth of the subprime and Alt-A markets during the “easy money” period of 2003–2005, it seemed that everyone was rushing to implement their own AUS, but too few managed to achieve anything more than a tool for checking investor eligibility. With those days behind us, the safe harbors of Loan Prospector and Desktop Underwriter are very much back in favor. What does the future hold for automated underwriting? Will the surviving industry players learn from past mistakes and build a better mousetrap the next time around? Attend this forward-looking session as renowned leaders in automated underwriting peer into their crystal balls and share what they see.
